A good lodging house is badly needed in Candelaria. Sleeping accommodations are so scarce that some nights, quite a number of people have either to sleep on the floor in stores or sit up all night.

McCormack is matched to have a ten round contest with Jim Hall the Australian, the contest to take place in two weeks, in Reno or Carson, for a large purse. McCormack is to stay the ten rounds to win.

The proposed entertainment did not come off last night, as Prof. Anderson was in Reno, negotiating for a match with Jim Hall, the Australian. Word was sent to Carson on Friday to stop the sale of tickets.

A widow of Artemus Ward now bebs up and claims his estate along with the ten children. One of the hardest points the woman has to combat, is that the date of her alleged marriage certificate and Ward's birth is only a year apart.

The secrets of the corrupt lobby which hangs around Congress have a queer way of cropping out at unexpected times and places. In the trial of the newspaper correspondent, Charles E. Kincaid, for the murder of ex-Representative Taulbee, of Kentucky in the Capitol building a little over a year ago, ex-Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives, Samuel Donaldson, when on the witness stand admitted, under the sharp cross-examination of Gen. Grosenor, one of Kincaid's counsel, that his occupation in Washington was lobbying, and that one of his principal clients was the Western Union Telegraph Company. This was not news to Postmaster General Wanamaker, who has some time since discovered why his postal telegraph system was "hung up" in Congress, as well as the names of the men who did the lobbying against it for Jay Gould's telegraphic octopus, but it was to a great many other people who had often wondered how Sam Donaldson could afford to wine and dine so many Democratic members of Congress when he had no visible means of support.

Sandrock and Millard, practical plumbers and gasfitters, have opened a shop in Dick Mills' old stand South Carson St., and propose to do all work in their line at prices so low that you don't have to mortgage your property, to pay them. Stoves and ranges and all kinds of tinware on hand, at very reasonable rates. Razors and scissors sharpened. j31tf

A. Livingston now practically controls the wholesale liquor trade of the city. He is continually adding to his stock and sells only standard brands. He is also introducing some excellent California wines to the people of Carson, as well as foreign and domestic cigars of the finest quality. Drop in and inspect his holiday stock. d 13 tf

WEIRD SERVICES

Solemn Midnight Obsequies of the Late General Albert Pike.

Washington, April 10.—Long before midnight last night hundreds of people had gathered in front of the First Congregational Church waiting to witness the midnight services over the remains of the late General Albert Pike.

So dense was the crowd that it was with great difficulty that the bearers of the casket from the Scottish Rites sanctuary could force their way into the church. They were followed by a long line of Masons who wished to pay high honor to a deceased brother. It was a quarter of an hour after midnight when the services began. The scene in the church was peculiarly solemn at that hour of the night—asssembled Knights and dark trappings combined to make it an impressive picture. The walls of the church were covered with black cloth while on the catafalque on a platform, extending twenty feet from the pulpit, was the body of the deceased Knight.

There were nine candlesticks, four feet in height in three triangles each having upon it a lighted candle. Otherwise the large church was unlighted. On the upper end of the casket was a chaplet of white roses, and below it the insignia of the order, and the sword of deceased Knight in its scabbard. Upon a tablet near the coffin was a skull wreathed with evergreens, surrounded by seven large candlesticks bearing no lights. At the head of the casket stood a great iron cross painted black. When all was quiet and the organ played softly, Grand Master Holt, bearing a lighted candle and an iron hammer, walked slowly in from a room on the left and stood at the foot of the casket.

Then twenty-one Knights, all bearing candles and attired in black followed, with scarfs of crape and their heads bare. They entered like shadows, and arranged themselves in a semi-circle on the west, south and north sides of the casket, facing the east. For a few moments there was a perfect silence; a trumpet sounded in plaintive notes in an adjoining room, and after the last re-echoes had died away the Grand Master began the ceremonies according to the ancient knightly custom.

The beautiful but weird services were continued by removing the chaplet from the temples of the dead Knight, the cross from the breast, the cards from the feet and hands, and then in succession, the attendants approached the casket and laid their right hands upon the eyes, cheek, mouth, heart, hands and feet, each repeating a blessing. When the last attendant had touched the body of the dead, the light was turned up, and after all had left the church, the remains were carried back to the Scottish Rite Temple.

The City Election.

The city election will be conducted under the new Australian ballot system. Among other things it provides that nominations in a city election must be filed with the city Clerk, 20 days prior to the election.

Yesterday the names of Hofer and Wooley were filed with Hy Doane. No others have yet been filed although an opposition ticket is being incubated. Monday night at midnight is the limit of time left for filing nominations.

Any three men can nominate a candidate by complying with the law. The interest at stake is the handling of the $25,000 to build sewers for Carson, and this will probably make the election a lively one.

Sad Death.

Yesterday afternoon, Julia Muran, who has been sick in Carson for two weeks of spinal meningitis died at the residence of Mr. Henry Morrison her brother-in-law. She came up here from Sacramento to attend the funeral of her little brother, who died at the Orphans' Home about a month ago. The funeral will take place from the Episcopal Church at 2:30 this afternoon. Friends and acquaintances are invited to attend.

"Si Plunkard."

Farmer J. C. Lewis and his great company of comedians held the boards at Davis' Opera House last evening, and were greeted with a packed house. Everybody, of course, went for the purpose of courting an occasion for laughter and they were certainly gratified, as the play was exorbitantly funny as presented by this superb band of laugh-makers. Mr. Lewis, as Si, was of course the chief attraction, while Mr. Milligan, the German comedian, was also justly a favorite. The musical specialties were highly appreciated by the audience, as was shown by the heartiness of echoes.—[Findlay, (O.) Morning Republican, Nov. 12, 1890.]

The above attraction will be seen at the Opera House, Tuesday evening. Reserved seats on sale at Hawkins' cigar store.

Nevada's Ex-Governor.

Ex-Governor Oliver Roberts, of Nevada, is proprietor of a hotel in Carson City. He is noted for repeating the remark which is said to have once passed between the Governors of the Carolinas. He was Governor of the State for only one day, yet his administration was one of the most popular ever known in the State. With most of the Governors the general impression in regard to their tenures is, the shorter the better, but with Governor Roberts the case was different. Everybody regretted when his term came to a close.—Silver State.

It may be news to many to learn that Roberts was ever Governor of Nevada even for a day but such is the case.

All the State officers and their deputies were out of the State except Roberts and he was ex-Officio "Gov." for twenty-four hours.

'Twas Ever Thus.

The Carson Tribune had to take water on its proposition that the editor pays more taxes than the editor of the APPEAL. "Prefer to call at some responsible institution," is a thin excuse to get out of putting up coin on its own proposition.—Independent.

In this connection we are only able to express a hope that our twilight contemporary will some time fix upon some responsible locality where the details can be arranged and the coin put up.

In this world of toil and strife
The man's inspired who never bungles.
But he's the saddest thing in life,
Who always bobs—but never pungles.
